Truck Violence Flares Up

Talks Start In Washington For Settlement

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
New incidents of violence erupted Thursday in the wildcat Teamsters strike despite deployment of Ohio National Guard troops, and there appeared to be little movement of trucks in the hard-hit Cleveland-Akron area.

Meanwhile, talks were started in Washington, with Robert E. Sweeney, a former congressman and currently a Democratic gubernatorial hopeful, representing the dissident members of Teamsters Local 407. Sweeney and dissident leaders went to Washington to meet with Ohio Teamster boss William Presser and Local 407 leaders. Sweeney said he was hopeful of finding a solution to the dispute between rank-and-file Teamsters and their leaders. The rebels oppose a new national contract worked out in Washington providing $1.10 hourly pay raises over a three-year period. They want $2 hourly pay hikes.

National guardsmen and Cleveland police used tear gas to break up a crowd of 150 rebel Teamsters who gathered to prevent movement of a 10-truck convoy from the Modern Motor Express Co. terminal on Lakeside Avenue in Cleveland Thursday night.

The force of 125 guardsmen and police got the drivers away from the terminal with their tractors after freight from Columbus was unloaded, but the reloaded trailers were left behind.

The convoy was pelted with rocks when it arrived from Columbus, but no one was injured.

A Modern Motor driver, Verill Dean of Columbus, was arrested for carrying a concealed weapon.

Bigger Social Security Tax Under Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House will receive legislation, probably next week, for another increase in Social Security benefits for retirees—and a boost in the taxes on persons still at work.

The House Ways and Means Committee had the legislation almost completed Thursday when it adjourned for the week-end. The benefit increase probably will be 5 per cent across the board, added to the 15 per cent boost voted last year.

Republicans are pressing instead for a scale related to the cost of living, but apparently they do not have the votes.

The payroll tax that pays for Social Security, including hospitalization under medicare, would be increased by raising the yearly wage base on which it is levied from $7,000 to $9,000, effective next Jan. 1.

The effect of this increase, along with a rate boost already written into the law, would be to increase the maximum Social Security tax paid by an employee, and matched by his employer, from this year's $374.40 to $486.

The committee bill would channel some of the extra revenue into the fund for medicare, hard hit by soaring charges for health services. It would also try to curb these by providing for preset-hospital charges and standards for doctor bills.

TUG O' WAR — Ohio Highway Patrol Lt. James Pribble, commander of the Circleville post, and two assistants wrestle with a demonstrator on a Columbus street after they broke up a student blockade near the Ohio State University. Order has been restored at the OSU campus today.

Student Marshals Restore Peace On OSU Campus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Establishment decided reluctantly Thursday to let student leaders try to stop disorders at Ohio State University, and within a few hours peace was restored.

"They really gave us a big assist," National Guard Col. James Folk said of about 150 student marshals who patrolled the campus, calming down youth and dispersing crowds.

He gave them "full credit" for quieting the campus, where student rioting Wednesday night and Thursday morning injured scores of people, resulted in 500 arrests and left widespread damage.

About 1,800 National Guard troops and large concentrations of city police and Ohio Highway Patrol officers remained in the university area today, but there were only a few reports of scattered incidents since Thursday evening.

A group of student assembly members, headed by Tim Sheeran, student body president, received permission from National Guard and Highway Patrol officers Thursday afternoon to let marshals assist authorities in restoring order.

As word of the agreement was passed around the campus, sporadic clashes between students and police began to taper off.

"The marshals were very effective," said Sheeran. "They were permitted to talk with students and crowds so that they could let off steam verbally instead of physically."

Sheeran said authorities notified student leaders of all problems in the university area and gave marshals time to go to the trouble scenes and break up crowds before police moved in with tear gas.

Assisting the marshals were about 200 members of the Green Ribbon Commission, a group of faculty members formed specifically to keep campus demonstrations from boiling into violence.

Meanwhile, University and Grant hospitals reported they had treated 139 persons, mostly for cuts and bruises and tear gas burns. Eighteen persons received minor gunshot wounds.

Damage was wide spread, although amount has not been determined. On campus, it was confined mainly to four build-

Storms Roam Mississippi Valley Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Heavy thunderstorms roaming the lower Mississippi Valley dumped torrential rains today into Arkansas and Louisiana and churned up occasional high winds.

Tornadoes or strong wind storms caused moderate damage in southeastern Missouri and in parts of Arkansas Thursday night. One man was injured in a twister near Naylor, Mo.

Three inches of rain swamped Conway, Ark., northwest of Little Rock, in a half hour. Nearly 2½ inches washed El Dorado, Ark., and more than 2 inches poured into Shreveport, La.

A tornado watch was in effect much of the night in portions of Missouri, Illinois, Kentucky, Indiana and Tennessee. Funnel clouds that did not touch down were sighted in several locations.

Cold rain, chilled regions northwest of the storm belt. Snow fell in the northern and central Rockies and spilled into some Plains areas. The falling temperatures brought freezing conditions to Texas-Oklahoma panhandle. Frost was expected as far south as Arizona and New Mexico.

Two inches of snow whitened Goodland, Kan., late Thursday.

Severe windstorms in the Chicago area late Thursday caused heavy damage in a number of neighborhoods on the city's northwest side. Nine persons were treated for minor injuries.

Numerous trees were toppled, signs torn down and windows broken in homes and some stores in the Chicago storm. The Weather Bureau termed it a possible tornado.

The toll in twin tornadoes that hit Oklahoma City early Thursday was set at 38 to 41 persons injured, 6 homes destroyed, 25 with major damage and 600 other with at least some damage.

Mild but overcast, weather dominated much of the eastern seaboard. Fog reduced visibility at New York's Kennedy International Airport Thursday night and caused departure delays up to 40 minutes. Overseas flights were diverted to other airports in the region.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 24 at Evanston, Wyo., to 78 at Key West, Fla., and Brownsville, Tex.

Bowling Green Firm To Offer Work To Charity

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — A Bowling Green firm has offered its employees services to charity.

"Because of the Teamsters strike, the plant is unable to obtain supplies or ship finished products," said Roger Elrod, director of industrial relations at the Daybrook-Ottawa Division of Gulf & Western Metals Forming Co.

"As a result, 400 factory workers have been laid off and most of the 100 office workers have relatively little to do."

So, Elrod said, the company decided to allow workers to contribute their time to charity work and the firm will continue to pay full salaries.

Roundtown

TUESDAY, May 5 is Primary Election Day. The importance and effect of the Primary election is well described in The Ohio Information Committee publication, "Common Sense".

All people of voting age should know "there are 400 public offices and many local issues at stake." The Primary constitutes the nominating process once conducted by party conventions. If good candidates are nominated at the Primary, good candidates will be elected in November.

Thus, the importance of the Primary cannot be overemphasized. In the last gubernatorial election only 20 per cent of those who could have voted went to the polls at the Primary and only 40 per cent voted at the November election.

A "silent majority" that fails to vote is powerless and meaningless. On page 10 of today's edition of The Herald is information on local candidates and issues. Neither time nor space permitted a complete recap of the many candidates seeking nominations on a state level.

Election information was completed by Betty Dawley, Herald staff writer.

OPPOSE NIXON AID TO CAMBODIA — Swift opposition followed President Nixon's decision to support South Vietnam's military operations inside Cambodia with advisers and aid. Sens. 25,000 Allied Troops Push Into 'Fishhook' In Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — More than 25,000 American and South Vietnamese troops pushed deeper into two areas of Cambodia today but for the most part encountered only light resistance. It appeared that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong had anticipated the allied drives and pulled back to the west.

American combat troops and the U.S. Air Force's big B52 bombers extended their operations into Cambodia today for the first time in the Vietnam war in an attempt to smash the headquarters of the Communist high command for South Vietnam.

After an advance bombardment by about 35 B52s and nearly 100 artillery pieces at nine firebases along the border, a force of 8,000 Americans and about 2,000 South Vietnamese crossed this morning into the Cambodian area known to the military as the Fishhook, 70 miles northwest of Saigon, Hanoi.

Funds Released For Pickaway Airport

The Ohio State Controlling Board Thursday released $150,000 for construction and improvements for a Pickaway County airport.

The action was announced today by State Senator Harry Armstrong.

The Airport Zoning Board composed of commissioners of Pickaway and Ross counties held a hearing Thursday in the court house. No one appeared for the hearing except the three Pickaway Commissioners, Dick T. Tootle, Wayne Hines and Charles Morris.

The airport authority has advertised for bids which will be opened Tuesday in the county commissioners office.

To date, 11 firms have asked for plans for the general contract and 13 firms for plans for the electrical contract for the airport.

The proposed landing strip will be located on property purchased from Charles Kiresel in southern Pickaway County.

About 55 miles to the southwest, one of the four South Vietnamese task forces that invaded the Parrot's Beak area of Cambodia Wednesday linked up with Cambodian troops defending the provincial capital of Svay

The other three South Vietnamese forces were sweeping the Parrot's Beak area for enemy base camps. A total of 15,000 South Vietnamese troops were in the four forces, and about 100 advisers were the only American troops.

Actress Inger Stevens Dies Of Apparent Pill Overdose

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Inger Stevens, a blonde Swedish-born actress who often complained of loneliness despite a busy career and frequent dating, is dead at 36.

The talented star, clad in a negligee, was found on the kitchen floor of her ranch-style Hollywood Hills home Thursday by her longtime friend and secretary, Lola McNally. Coroner Thomas Noguchi said death was caused by acute intoxication from barbiturates, a common ingredient of sleeping pills.

Miss McNally, who lives in the Stevens home but was away for the night, said she talked with the actress by telephone Wednesday night and all seemed well. But upon receiving no answer to a call Thursday morning, she went to the home.

Miss Stevens, she said, opened her eyes and tried to speak, but couldn't. She was pronounced dead en route to a hospital in an ambulance.

Miss Stevens, a native of Stockholm, came to the United States with her parents at the age of 13. She got to Hollywood in 1956 and found almost instant acclaim. Yet in 1959 she tried to take her own life by swallowing a poisonous cleaning fluid in a New York apartment.

She explained at the time: "Sometimes I get so lonely I could scream."

Miss Stevens was the star for three years of the television series, "The Farmer's Daughter."

She was divorced from New York theatrical agent Anthony Soglio on July 17, 1957, and never remarried. There were no children.

Her movies included "The Long Ride Home," "Fire creek," "A Guide to the Married Man," "House of Cards," "Five Card Stud" and the recent "A Dream of Kings."

She spoke not long ago of retiring and devoting her life to retarded children.

She was chairman of the California Council for Mentally Retarded Children and spent considerable time at the Kedren Community Health Center in the Los Angeles Negro district of Watts.

Seek Order To Arrest Teamsters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes asked Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown today to proceed at once to obtain an injunction prohibiting interference with movement of trucks on Ohio streets or highways, or molesting drivers or other motor transportation industry employees.

He said the injunction is needed to facilitate arrests of persons seeking to impede Ohio National Guardsmen in their assignment to protect free movement of trucks during the current wildcat Teamsters strike.

"The Negotiating Committee of the Teamsters International Union has just approved the draft of a proposed agreement to be submitted individually to the Teamster Union members," Rhodes said.

"This orderly process will ascertain in a democratic way whether the union members do or don't want the agreement that has been negotiated for them. Meanwhile, the pre-existing agreement remains in effect. There is absolutely no justification for anyone to interfere with free movement of trucks on Ohio's highways."

Says Assaults Essential To Save GIs

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a stunning turn of policy, President Nixon has launched a surprise offensive by U.S. and South Vietnamese troops against North Vietnamese and Viet Cong sanctuaries in Cambodia.

He declared the assaults were essential to save American lives, continue his Vietnam troop withdrawal program, and help end the war.

Nixon announced his controversial decision to the nation Thursday in a dramatic televised speech in which he acknowledged it might make him a one-term president but argued the stakes were too high for political considerations.

"Whether I may be a one-term president," he declared, "is insignificant compared to whether by our failure to act in this crisis the United States proves itself to be unworthy to lead the forces of freedom in this critical period."

His decision was immediately assailed by a number of leading senators, although some others praised it. In the immediate aftermath of the speech there was no doubt Nixon faces a bitter and prolonged battle in the Senate.

A White House official said the thrust into Cambodia should last six weeks to two months. Thousands of U.S. and South Vietnamese troops are engaged against an estimated enemy force of 40,000.

Nixon charged the Communists in the last two weeks have been overrunning Cambodia and turning it into a vast springboard for attacks into South Vietnam. He promised that "once enemy forces are driven out of these sanctuaries and their military supplies destroyed, we will withdraw."

But no one in Washington could predict how much of a fight the enemy forces would put up or how long the new, expanded phase of the war would continue. The reactions of Moscow and Peking, apart from expected angry outcries, were also admittedly unpredictable.

In words which seemed to recognize the risks of Russian and Red Chinese counter-actions, however, Nixon said:

"The additions (the strikes into Cambodia) are in no way directed at the security interests of any nation. Any government that chooses to use these actions as a pretext for harming relations with the United States will be doing so on its own responsibility and at its initiative and we will draw the appropriate conclusions."

Congressional leaders were briefed by the President and some Cabinet members immediately before the speech. There was no evidence they had been consulted before the decision was made.

Nor was there any evidence that U.S. allies, other than South Vietnam, had been consulted. Informed officials said Premier Lon Nol of Cambodia, who had asked Nixon for arms and military supplies, had not asked for U.S. troops. In fact, Cambodian officials said the U.S. action would be protested.

Nixon's decision drew immediate fire from Senate advocates of disengagement from the war and from foes of any expansion in such criticism as "unbelievable," "reckless" and "sad."

Rhodes Supports Nixon Decision

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes, a Republican candidate for U.S. Senate, today said he agrees with President Nixon's decision on Cambodia.

"We agree with him that there should be no commitment to a Cambodian war," Rhodes said. "I think the American people will recognize the President's action as a step toward achieving an honorable settlement in Vietnam."

Nixon, in a televised speech Thursday night, said U.S. forces would be used in Cambodia to wipe out a Communist military command post.

Risks, Politics Balanced In War's Expansion

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon rejected the great bulk of domestic political advice and accepted foreign policy risks in his surprise decision to send U.S. ground troops into Cambodia.

The storm signals were already flying high on Capitol Hill when Nixon made his disclosure Thursday night. Critics of his policy were picking up support and many Nixon backers were cautioning against his going beyond U.S. support for South Vietnam's previously announced foray into Cambodia.

"Sharp limits must be set" on any U.S. aid to Cambodia, was how Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., D-Va., put it. "Sending troops into Cambodia goes beyond that limit," he said.

Nixon was admittedly aware of the political future at stake, and he sought to allay fears that his decision ran against his campaign pledge to end the war and bring the boys home from Vietnam.

The U.S. strike would be only temporary, he said. It was against North Vietnamese in territory they held and thus not an invasion of Cambodia; it would save American lives, help bring about peace and allow the continuation of his GI withdrawal schedule.

Under Nixon's plan, American forces will pull out of Cambodia in six weeks to two months after smashing the enemy sanctuary. But he still runs a risk of foreign developments that could upset his timetable or otherwise damage his Vietnam program.

White House officials disclosed that one of these risks—a possible Red Chinese decision to enter the conflict as she did in the Korean war—had been carefully considered. The Nixon judgment, it was stated, was the risks were greater if the North Vietnamese were not hit in Cambodia.

Other risks include: —An anti-U.S. boomerang from violating Cambodia's neutrality. Cambodia says it did not accept and will protest the U.S. South Vietnamese attacks.

The White House portrays this as an understandable posture for a neutral Cambodia wanting to avoid handing the Communists a pretext for taking over Phnom Penh, the capital city. It also says Cambodian officials in fact welcome anything that removes the Viet Cong from their territory.

—A further escalation of the war by North Vietnam.

In the Nixon administration judgment, Hanoi could step up the fighting for a limited time. But what the North Vietnamese expend on this would have to be subtracted from their planned summer offensive in South Vietnam—without their sanctuary in Cambodia they will not have the means to do both.

—Greater involvement by the Soviet Union on Hanoi's side.

Risks . . .

while Moscow will be tempted to score propaganda advantage from what was termed a technical incursion against Cambodia, the Soviets will weigh its overall position vis-a-vis the United States worldwide against action in Southeast Asia.

—Loss of support of the U.S. position from allies and friendly neutrals.

The allies were informed of the Nixon decision but their reactions are not all in. Some Asian neutrals such as Indonesia have indicated disapproval.

But Nixon still hopes other nations will join the United States in supplying small arms to the Cambodian army.

Over-all Nixon saw the greatest risk in terms similar to those used by predecessors in the White House.

"If when the chips are down the United States acts like a pitiful helpless giant," he said.

"The forces of totalitarianism and anarchy will threaten free nations and free institutions throughout the world . . .

"Whether I may be a one-term President is insignificant compared to whether by our failure to act in this crisis the United States proves itself to be unworthy to lead the forces of freedom in this critical period."

where a truck and trailer had been abandoned. A crowd of Teamsters followed, jeering at Dean and calling him "scab."
When the dissidents noticed the butt of a pistol protruding from Dean's pocket they demanded his arrest. He was released on $200 bond.

In Dayton early today, an explosion rocked the Mack Trucking Co. and destroyed a truck and a trailer. No one was injured.

Investigators said the blast apparently was dynamite and destroyed the vehicle. The company is a service center for Mack trucks.

An indication that the month-long strike has strong support in the Cleveland area came from a meeting of dissident Teamsters Thursday at United Auto Workers hall in suburban Parma. Some 1,350 truckers attending the meeting roared their approval for continuing the strike.

Some of the Teamsters left the meeting and began stopping trucks nearby on Brook Park Road.

A stone-throwing group of about 200 truckers forced a three-truck convoy with a National Guard escort to pull back at the Yellow Freight Systems terminal on Triskett Road.

The incident ended with the dissidents saying they would leave if the 20 guardsmen involved would leave. The truckers did move away, the guard reported.

Some 3,700 guardsmen were on duty in Cleveland, Akron and Canton. At least two convoys—one with about 50 commercial vehicles in it—were escorted by the guard from terminals in Richfield.

National Guard helicopters also were in use, patrolling areas where there are concentrations of trucking terminals. Brig. Gen. Robert H. Canterbury said the volume of truck traffic has increased and the "frequency of incidents of harassment and intimidation" have decreased but he could give no statistics.

The Armo Steel Corp. in Middletown said about 30 truckloads of steel moved out Thursday morning with no difficulties reported. Few shipments had been made from the plant since the wildcat strike started April 1.

Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania called on the nation to "trust the President who alone has all the facts."

Nixon himself said one Republican senator has told him the Republican party had now lost all chance of winning the November elections and that others were saying he would be a one-term president.

The President announced his fateful decision in these words:

"In cooperation with the armed forces of South Vietnam, attacks are being launched this week to clean out major enemy sanctuaries on the Cambodian-Vietnam border."

The first attack started and had already been announced Wednesday. It was an offensive by South Vietnamese forces, with U.S. air and logistical support and about 100 American advisers, into a projection of Cambodian territory, known as "the Parrot's Beak," that reaches to about 35 miles from Saigon.

It was the second attack Nixon announced as starting Thursday night, Washington time, which carried the wallop of massive surprise.

None of the advance hints about his speech, even from military sources, had envisioned a decision to send U.S. ground troops across the Cambodian border.

But Nixon said he had concluded a combined American-South Vietnamese operation was necessary.

"Tonight, American and South Vietnamese units will attack the headquarters for the entire Communist military operation in South Vietnam. This key control center has been oc-cups with them. But American bombers, helicopter gunships and artillery were supporting them.

The South Vietnamese military command reported 406 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops killed in the Parrot's Beak and said 84 government troops were killed and 168 wounded, including 55 wounded accidentally by American helicopter gunships. Three Americans also were reported wounded.

The U.S. Command said initial reports from the Fishhook indicated that 74 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops were killed by American helicopter gunships and three more by ground troops. One American was wounded slightly, and two observation helicopters of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division were shot down, but both aircraft were recovered.

The U.S. Command also had a report that 108 persons had been detained, but spokesmen said they did not know whether they were Cambodians or Vietnamese.

The offensive launched today was under the command of Brig. Gen. Robert M. Shoemaker, assistant commander of the 1st Air Cav. His task force included four U.S. maneuver battalions, three South Vietnamese airborne battalions, the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment and a South Vietnamese armored regiment.

Associated Press correspondent Jay Sharbutt reported from the command post at Quan Loi, in South Vietnam, that a three-prong thrust was under way from Route 7 to seal off a triangular area running 20 miles east to west and 12 miles southeast to northwest.

The operation plan called for infantrymen to sweep through the region, perhaps taking as long as six weeks to two months to destroy whatever North Vietnamese and Viet Cong base camps they find.

Their main target was the jungle command post for all Communist military and political operations in South Vietnam, known as the Central Office for South Vietnam, or COSVN. But COSVN is a mobile command post, and senior South Vietnamese officers said it had moved deeper into Cambodia several days ago, apparently in anticipation of the American offensive.

cupied by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong for years in blatant violation of Cambodia's neutrality."

The area is known as "the fishhook" because of twists in the Cambodian-South Vietnamese border. It is about 50 miles from Saigon and northeast of "the Parrot's Beak." It has been known for several years as the site of Hanoi's "Central Office for South Vietnam"—COSVN—a large command and supply complex.

"This is not an invasion of Cambodia," Nixon said in apparent anticipation of dispute over whether he was violating Cambodia's territory and neutrality.

"The areas in which these attacks will be launched are completely occupied and controlled by North Vietnamese forces. Our purpose is not to occupy the areas. . . .

A White House official said the offensive had been under consideration for about 10 days. Military necessity was advanced as one reason why the President kept the consideration secret.

Nixon said that in the last two weeks enemy forces had begun spreading out from their border sanctuaries into other areas of Cambodia "and stripped away all pretense of respecting the sovereignty or neutrality of Cambodia." He declared they also were massing forces for attacks into South Vietnam against U.S. and allied troops.

Recorder Lists Month's Work

April recordings processed in the office of County Recorder Hazel M. Yeatts totaled 235. The figure is a decrease from the previous month but an increase over the same period, 1969.

Fewer deeds (91) were processed than in March (141). The number of real estate mortgages recorded increased from 61 to 65. Amount of monies involved was $1,082,507.17.

The recorder's case load for April included cancellation of 44 real estate mortgages involving money amounting to $390,913.37 and the filing and processing of 225 financing statements.

Students Will Attend OSU Test Session

Superintendents of the city and county schools report that plans for the final Central District Scholarship examinations, scheduled to be given to area students Saturday at the Ohio State University Campus, are still underway.

Both George McDowell, superintendent of the county school districts and Fritz Jacobs, of the city schools, announced today that the State Department of Education's Guidance Dept. informed them that things were in order on the campus for the tests to be held. According to the Highway Patrol, the recent revolt is under control and adequate protection is available on the campus in any event.

Attendance of the students is optional, both administrators said. In the city schools a special assembly was held this morning to inform the students of the situation and asking them to have the written permission of their parents before they can enter the buses which will transport them to the campus.

Seventy-four students in the city schools and over 100 in the county are scheduled to take the tests at tomorrow's session.

The spelling contest scheduled for tomorrow morning at the Ohio Student Union on the campus will also be held.

Fire Extinguished

A short in a motor outside the rear building at Joe's Frosty Treat at 844 N. Court St., resulted in a fire and $75 damage according to the Circleville Fire Department.

Gasoline, Money Taken In County

Two cases of petit larceny are being investigated by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

Donald Hildenbrand told Deputy Warren Straley someone broke the lock on a gasoline pump at his Kingston Pike residence and took 15 gallons of gas Thursday.

Someone entered the Richard Lisle apartment in Ashville Thursday afternoon and took $35 from Mrs. Lisle's purse.

She told Deputy Earl Kuhn she had returned from the market and left the purse on a couch in the living room.

She failed to lock the door and when she returned to get the purse the money was missing.

Municipal Court Has Light Docket

Only four local persons appeared before Judge Sterling Lamb in Municipal Court today. Ivan Crane, 517 S. Scioto St. and Franklin Vandagriff, Neuding Trailer Court, each received $25 fines for intoxication.

Ruby Alice McNeley, 325 Avon Drive and William E. Perkins, 18, of New Holland, were each fined $10 for speeding.

Scioto Sales Complies With USDA Order

Scioto Livestock Sales Company, of Chillicothe, has been ordered to stop violating trust account requirements under the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said today.

USDA Judicial Officer Thomas J. Flavin ordered the firm to cease and desist from:

(1) Using funds received from the sale of consigned livestock for purposes of its own; and

(2) Failing to maintain its trust account for shippers' proceeds according to P&S requirements.

The firm has corrected the shortages in its trust account since the administrative complaint was filed by the Packers and Stockyards Administration (PSA).

The cease and desist order — like a permanent injunction — was issued to insure future compliance with the P&S Act.

Scioto Livestock consented to the cease and desist order when it answered the administrative complaint issued by USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration. It waived oral hearing.

The firm admitted USDA jurisdiction and neither admitted nor denied the other allegations.

The P & S Act is a fair trade practices law. It promotes and maintains fair and open competition in the marketing of livestock, poultry and meat.

The record in this case is open to the public. Copies of the order, P&S Docket 4274 may be obtained from the Information Officer Packers and Stockyards Administration, USDA, Washington, D. C. 20250

The Capitol physician said the right knee was wrenched but no bones broken.

Dear Abby: Luncheon Dates — On A Diet

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please write something in your column about people (usually women) who are trying to lose weight. It is their business what they eat in their own homes, but when they are at a friends' house for dinner or lunch, don't you think it's rude of them to pick at their food and to say, "I'm sorry, I'm on a diet and can't eat very much." Or even flatly refuse to taste your dessert!

When the hostess goes to a lot of trouble to make food attractive and tasty shouldn't the guest, out of courtesy to her, eat and enjoy it?

People should diet at home! It's like a slap in the face when these picky dieters come to your table and spurn good food.

INDIGNANT
DEAR INDIGNANT: Lucky you! Apparently you don't know how hard it is to lose a few pounds.

When a dieter is invited out, she should let her hostess know that she is watching her calories. I would not feel "insulted" if a guest tried to stick to his diet at my table. I would help him instead, by serving fruit and cheese for dessert, and I wouldn't coax him to eat more than he wanted.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for two years to a wonderful man, but something has come up which threatens our marriage.

I have three children by a previous marriage. The children's father has been sending support checks regularly since our divorce. He's never complained, but I know it has been a terrible hardship on him because he is now married to a woman whose husband deserted her and her three children, so he adopted her three, and is now supporting six children.

My children and their father have always had an excellent relationship. Now my children see their father's stepchildren at school and church, and they notice the disparity between their standards of living and that of their father's adopted children, whom they like very much.

Abby, my present husband is very well to do, and he doesn't need that support money from my "ex," but he says he is not about to let him off the hook.

It seems so wrong for us to continue to accept support checks from my "ex" who is struggling hard to make ends meet, when my children don't need it, and his adopted family does.

My children and I have talked it over and want to put a stop to the support checks, but my husband is determined to keep collecting until the children are all of age. What can I do, Abby?

WALKING A TIGHT ROPE
DEAR WALKING: Nothing. Your present husband for reasons of insecurity, probably resents your "ex" and is determined to keep him on the hook for child support. Or he could be, frankly money-hungry. Both are regrettable, but there is nothing you can do about either, unless through persistent hammering you can finally get through to him. Keep trying.

DEAR ABBY: That designing female who set up a candlelight and wine dinner to find out if that new muscle man in the office was as good a lover as he appeared to be sure got what was coming to her. Nothing! Poor guy was probably emasculated previously by another female before he was old enough to protect himself. His mother. BEEN THERE

Arms Conference Goes Into Recess For 6 Weeks

GENEVA (AP) — The 25-nation disarmament conference went into a six-week recess today while governments study two major nonarmament measures—draft treaties to ban germ warfare and the use of nuclear weapons on the sea bed.

The joint United States-Soviet sea bed draft appears to stand a good chance of general acceptance by the time the next U.N. General Assembly meets in the fall.

The British draft treaty to ban the manufacture, use and stockpiling of biological weapons stands far less chance of success.

The Soviet Union and its allies have introduced a rival draft calling for a blanket ban on both biological and chemical weapons, to be controlled by national inspection systems.

'Blountering' Around

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
Despite John F. Kennedy's Executive order proclaiming that no employee of the Federal government would be subjected to compulsory unionism, and despite Richard Nixon's reiteration of the same, Postmaster General Winton Blount is still hell-bent to put the right to bargain for a compulsory union shop into the new postal reform bill. And, incomprehensibly, he is getting support from the White House in his effort to transgress the 1968 Republican Platform, which pledged the party "to protect Federal employees in the exercise of their right... to join or assist any employee organization or to refrain from any such activities." So much for the honorable intentions of a supposedly honorable party.

AFL-CIO President George Meany looks like an outside cat who has swallowed forty canaries when he is asked, by Congressmen such as Democrat David Henderson of North Carolina and Republican William Scott of Virginia, if he would support a postal reform bill guaranteeing the right of a letter carrier to make up his own mind about joining a union. "I would obviously not support a bill," said Mr. Meany, "that went against an agreement with the Executive branch of government." This sort of response is an insult that Congress, which is supposed to pass the laws, should resent.

There are 750,000 postal workers in the country. Some 200,000 of these do not belong to any union. Under the Blount bill they could be forced, as a condition of their employment by a new government-owned public postal service, to pay dues to union leaders who might use the money to elect politicians in no way representative of a 200,000 minority. The fact that such activity goes against the free speech guarantee of the First Amendment would be meaningless.

Well, we might as well hold our noses and accept that "Blountering," which is the Washington word for Winton Blount's methods, has in store for us. Unless there is a sudden show of libertarian zeal and decency, citizens of the U.S. will, at some not far distant day, suddenly wake up to the fact that they can't work for their own government without paying tribute to a second government which will be in a position to dictate to the first government.

The prospect of granting sovereignty to a two-headed hippogriff, each entitled to collect money by force, looms ahead of us. Any monopoly is abhorrent, but a monopoly within a monopoly is something really special.

There is only one thing that might make the Blount bill palatable. And that is to accompany the "Blountered" postal reform with another bill removing the prohibitions on private competition with what is now the government monopoly in person-to-person mail. The able new Congressman, Philip Crane from the northern Cook County Chicago suburbs, has introduced such a bill. Private competition in first-class mail carrying would leave some scope for voluntary unionism, particularly in private mail concerns operating in the nineteen Right-to-Work states. With a free field and no favor in the business of mail carrying, there could be no monopoly within a monopoly.

Once upon a time we had a competitive private mail service. It was called the Western Pony Express, and it got the mail through to the Pacific Coast in spite of holdups, snow, wild animals, and Indian uprisings. The Pony Express was a financial failure at the end, but this does not mean that modern techniques in private carrying would necessarily fail. Tom Murray, the president of Independent Postal System of America, an Oklahoma City company which now carries second, third and fourth class mail quite legally in twenty-one states and in Canada, is ready to have a go at handling first-class mail if the Crane bill is passed.

Dear Editor:

As members of the Pickaway Pioneers Farm Bureau Council we were extremely proud of the young people of Washington, Pickaway and Salterree townships, for the work they did on Earth Day.

The science department of Logan Elm High School, under the direction of Mrs. Bob Mills, Vic Pontius and Don Berger, conducted a clean-up program on the township roads. This tremendous effort by these young people was greatly appreciated.

Dear Editor:

As parents, residents, and taxpayers of the Westfall School district, we are alarmed at the trend that has been established and which is year by year lowering the standards of education for our children.

As has been pointed out to voters before, until last year no new operating money had been requested. A fact we cannot overlook is that our district is now operating under conditions which existed over a decade ago.

This is proven by the pay schedule which is offered our teachers. A quality teacher, who can go elsewhere is going to do so. (and they are doing just this). The district can only hire new teachers who have taken no courses in education or who have only partial degrees. Who suffers from this? Our children.

What does the May Primary Operating Levy mean to the pupils of Westfall School District? We think it means that the school board could compete with other districts for teachers who have a proper education and could keep the dedicated ones it already has. It could replace some of our old textbooks, especially the ones that were printed in 1954.

We hear so often from those folks who no longer have youngsters in school that it is no concern of theirs. We feel this is wrong. When these individuals were attending school, someone had to pay taxes in order for the schools to be operated in the necessary manner. (In those days any amount of taxation looked huge, regardless of how much it was.)

To think that the schools will be closed for a length of time next year due to the lack of funds makes us feel pretty sad, because again it is our children who will be hindered by it, not the school board members, executive head, or the teachers.

We need this operating levy, not only for teacher's salaries—but for general operating of all the buildings in the district. We are sure this is a large figure, because we know what it takes to operate and keep up our home, adequately, and it is much more than it was ten years ago. And because it is we have not ignored it. We have just spread our funds out to meet this expense. And we are willing to stretch them a little farther for the additional taxes if it will benefit our four children and all the children in our Westfall School District.

When we go to the polls on Tuesday, May 5, we are going to consider the children of our district in terms of how they will benefit from additional tax millage and less on how much it will cost us in dollars and cents. Therefore we will be putting our X's for the 4 mill operating levy of Westfall School District, a district we are proud of.

Dear Editor:

Before too many citizens of this state or country have a chance to tear down my university because of what happened Wednesday, I wish to disclose my feelings. I am extremely proud of The Ohio State University and consider it a privilege to attend such a great institution. The events of Wednesday are definitely not the fault of the university and it would be a terrible mistake to ridicule a name in education which means so much to so many.

Where then does the blame lie? Why have these problems arisen? For the answers to these questions, all one need do is walk across the Oval, hiring somebody like Tom Murray to establish special handling for their product? There could be gold in them thar hills for everybody if we get off our monopolistic kick.

traverse the paths surrounding Mirror Lake, or take one's life into his own hands on High Street bordering the university area.

What will be seen are poor excuses for students acting not in a civilized manner. The yelling, the immoral actions of couples and the absences of social graces will become quickly apparent. To the observer, there will be seen no limit to the dress of these individuals. Sloppy, faded blue jeans, filthy sweat shirts and bare feet seem to have crept into the fashion scene.

This clothing and manner angle may or may not have a thing to do with the incidents, but it is surprising how this correlates with the usual students causing unrest.

As for the problem itself, what gives that handful of students the right to demand anything? In the first place, the majority of these students are being sent through school by their parents. Since the parents are "footing the bill," they should be the ones to protest if anything is wrong—not the students. Given the chance, I will bet the parents would not have a thing to do with the demands set by these students.

Another point should be mentioned. The majority of these students are experiencing their first or second years of university life. How much experience do they have in directing a university or meeting its problems in comparison with President Fawcett and his Board of Directors? Where have they suddenly gained all their vast knowledge?

This brings us to the problem itself—the number of one race enrolled compared with the enrollment of another race. Now really! I have attended The Ohio State University for a total of eight years, and I have never heard of a prospective student being turned away if he met the requirements. And, believe me, color is not one of the requirements.

It is time we put the blame where the blame really lies—not on the university, but on the handful of students for which it is difficult to determine actually their reasons for even attending college. If they are there merely to destroy what it has taken a century to build, then let them go to some other place for satisfaction.

I am deeply attached to my university and do not relish the thought of its name being threatened. For one, I will stand behind President Fawcett in settling this problem and seriously hope others will give support.

Dear Editor:

As many of us know, the Rembrandt Studio in Columbus has been taking student portraits for the Circleville High School Annual for many years. This year is no exception.

Why the local school board continues to give its business to an outside concern, is too deep for me. Such is hard to fathom when one considers that Circleville has an outstanding photographer of its own. The pictorial offerings of the Schreiner Studio on W. Main St. speak for themselves.

Perhaps the most important question for the school board to answer, the one that is sure to form in the minds of all Roundtowners, is the following: "Why are certain tax dollars being spent with an outside concern to circulate elsewhere instead of with Mr. Schreiner who has been helping to support our schools for the past several years?"

If there is a logical explanation to the foregoing, I'm sure the Herald will be glad to print it in this column.

YOUNG Pulsifer threw his school books into the corner, rejected a plateful of cookies for the first time in his life and reported, "I got an F in history today, our class lost its basketball game, and somebody swiped my new wrist watch. This was positively the worst day I've ever been to!"

Old-time theatre buffs will long remember the night that Constance Collier broke in a new show at Philadelphia's Walnut Street Playhouse. The part called for her to sweep onstage with two huge wolfhounds in tow. The footman duly announced Miss Collier's arrival and in she strode with the wolfhounds. Unfortunately, the dogs took one look at the spotlight, panicked, and dragged Miss Collier across the stage on her derriere, straight through the fireplace. It took ten minutes for the audience to stop roaring with laughter, but then Miss Collier gamely reappeared—this time minus the wolfhounds.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

What is wrong with an eight-year-old girl who plays with her breast? She is the eighth child in the family of nine girls and has been scolded by me and her older sisters every day. What can I do to help her quit this habit?

Mrs. I.A.K., Arkansas
Dear Mrs. K.: The rest of your letter does not need exact repetition but it does indicate that your little girl derives some sense of security by what she does. To be constantly scolded by seven other children and her parents cannot be considered the ideal way to give your daughter the feeling that she is loved.

All you are doing by ganging up against her is isolating her further and making it necessary for her to seek some feeling of being wanted and loved. In essence, she is loving herself, possibly because no one else does.

If you really want to help this child you must develop a greater understanding of her special needs. Surround her with love and avoid embarrassing or shaming her. Discuss this entire problem with your doctor. If he feels that a psychological consultation is necessary, he will then arrange it. A great many psychological tests are now available which can quickly, and in many cases, pinpoint her underlying problem.

By helping her in this way you will also help the rest of the family in their relationship with each other.

Every once in a while I get a sharp sticking pain in the lower back. It then disappears and may not come back for months. Can this be trouble with my sacroiliac joint?

Mr. N.B., Rhode Island
Dear Mr. B.: It could be, of course, but it could also be any one of a dozen conditions varying from neuritis to neuralgia to arthritis to muscle strain and even to slipped disc. But the chances are unlikely that you have any one of these.

The medical term is hexenschuss (hexen meaning witches and schuss meaning a stick). Sometimes, the sharp pain may be the result of back strain.

Before any of these conditions are treated, the exact diagnosis must be made by neurological examination and by X-ray. Only then can a proper treatment be started.

Can intolerable itching be caused by taking an antibiotic—one that has been used before without any trouble?

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Ask almost any stock market analyst the reason for the recent stock market slide and he'll blame it on the public.

"The public is wary," he'll say, or "the public expects greater values when the market goes lower," or "the public is worried over the Southeast Asia situation, high interest rates and the persistence of inflation."

The public! Who is this public so often referred to? It is a cross-section of American investors of all sizes, shapes and geographical distribution? You might believe so. It isn't.

The fact of the matter is that each year more of "the public" is made up of multimillion—and sometimes multibillion-dollar corporations, based in the nation's largest cities. Numerically speaking, the public is a relative few.

Today there are 26 million shareholders, or more than four times the number of 20 years ago. Does this mean they have that many times the power to influence prices? Not at all. They have much less power.

The explanation is that the institutions—mutual and pension funds, trusts, insurance companies and banks—have grown incredibly powerful in recent years and on some days do most of the trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

That 26 million figure is somewhat of an illusion as well, because it includes as shareowners those people who invest in mutual funds, rather than directly in stocks. And no small investor tells a fund what to do. Documentation for the trend is contained in a study of trading on the Big Board during the first six months of 1969.

It states: "In terms of total NYSE share volume, institutions and intermediaries accounted for a record 41 per cent in the first half of 1969—up sharply from their proportion in 1966 and 1967."

On the other hand, "individuals contributed only about 35 per cent to the total volume during the first half of 1969, compared with significantly higher figures in prior studies."

And who accounted for the other 24 or 25 per cent? Members of the exchange who traded for their own accounts. In 10 years, however, their percentage of trading has changed little. The big change is the increase in institutional power and the reduction in power of the individual investor.

The dominance of institutions is even more pronounced when the dollar figures are reviewed. In the first six months of last year they accounted for 46 per cent of the dollar volume, compared with just 29 per cent in 1960.

"Individuals dominated trading on the NYSE in 1960," the report notes, "accounting for over two-thirds of public share volume and three-fifths of the corresponding share value."

But by 1966, it continues, "the diminution of the individual's impact on the market, in terms of both public share volume and value, was already apparent." And the gap has widened each year since then.

There, then, is "the public" referred to by analysts today.

NEW YORK (AP) — Take the high pressure out of a television star's life, and what do you have? Well, in the case of Garry Moore, you have a relaxed philosopher and a happy man.

"It would scare hell out of me if I were suddenly faced with doing a big hit show regularly again," he said. "I couldn't stand the anxiety."

Garry, one of the best-liked men in show business, remembers with pleasure—but with no desire to repeat them—the crowded years when he was the star of two of the nation's 15 top-rated network shows. In entertainment circles it was reported he was earning an awesome $30,000 a week.

"When you're real hot," said Garry, "you're working almost every moment you're awake. Somebody has you by the ear all the time, even when you're riding in a cab."

"This is why actors are so self-centered. They are constantly turned back in on themselves by other people as well as by their own inclinations."

Today Garry restricts his activities largely to a weekly broadcast for the "Voice of America" and a five-times-a-week chore as emcee of a new edition of "To Tell The Truth," the longtime television game favorite.

Since he probably has enough in the bank to keep steak on his table for several generations, why does he continue working at all?

"Well, I didn't do anything except occasional spot appearances for 2 1/2 years," he said. "You get so you want to have a place to go when you wake up in the morning. Also it serves as a platform for other things you want to do."

"If you don't keep your name alive, you can't service the other things."

The "other things," which Moore didn't specify, are charities in which he is active.

"It may sound terrible to say so, but I have no big remaining goals in show business," he remarked. "My goals are to sail my boat"—he has a 40-foot kech—"keep my friends, and enjoy life."

"One of the things I like most about being on 'To Tell The Truth' is that I'm just a hired hand."

"When I had two shows of my own running, I didn't know it was particularly difficult until I stopped. Now I could no more do that again than I could go to the moon."

"One of the big problems of having your own show is that you are responsible for the welfare of so many people. Too much hinges on you."

"You have to be aware even of the second trombone player's troubles with his wife—and do something about them."

Roundtowners were awaiting the appointment of an acting postmaster to fill the post which Postmaster A. Hulse Hays planned to vacate June 1.

The Trinity Lutheran Men's Brotherhood held their Diamond Jubilee Banquet, honoring members of the congregation who had reached or passed the age of 75. Among those honored were: Mr. and Mrs. George Kerns, oldest married couple (53 years); Mrs. Amanda Neff, member with the most children; Charles Stoer, father of the most children and youngest male member of the club; Mrs. Ella Maiden, 92, senior lady member and John Carpenter, 89, senior man member. Entertainment was provided by "Huff'n Puff," Zehner, "Shoutin' Out," Schwarz, "Blast'n Blow," Ebert and Hoop'n Hollar, Leist.

Circleville and Pickaway County Health officials received word to postpone all vaccinations of the Salk Polio serum so the government could make a more thorough check on the vaccines turned out by five manufacturers after 44 students in other areas of the U. S. contracted polio following the inoculations.

Pickaway County ranked 8th among the 88 Ohio counties in traffic death toll.

Ed Wallace, Pickaway County representative to the Ohio Legislature revealed that Route 23 near Gold Cliff Park could become a 35 mile per hour zone during June, July, August and early September. The area had long been a scene of accidents and fatalities.

Berger Hospital held an open house to display the new wing added on to the structure. Equipment and furniture was provided through a continuing gift program of the hospital guilds.

Dr. Henry H. Swope Jr., 32, one of the newest physicians in Circleville, was injured when his car collided with a wrecker on Route 22. Swope's auto flipped over once, throwing the doctor out and landing right side up straddling a farm fence. Deputies White and Radcliff both agreed Swope was lucky to be alive.

A new fire alarm system was installed at the county sheriff's office for residents of the village of Williamsport. When there was a fire a farmer would dial the Circleville operator and ask for the sheriff's department and give the location of the blaze to one of the deputies. A lever was tripped and the siren in Williamsport set off, summoning volunteer firemen who then called the department for the location of the fire. These arrangements resulted from the new dialing system installed in the village.

The city dump was more an orphan every day. Even the fire departments refused to douse a blaze in the junk filled area. Controversy over legal right to handle fires in the dumping area was topped May 16, when a new state highway department truck caught fire and burned to a tangled hulk with no department making any attempt to save it.

Pickaway County Auditor Fred L. Tipton died following a long illness. The 60-year-old Republican had held the office since 1947 and had served as deputy to former auditor Forrest Short.

The Adult Reading World

Public concern for the glamorous Kennedy family has existed since the days when Franklin Roosevelt appointed Joseph P. Kennedy as ambassador to the Court of St. James. "The Founding Father" by Richard Whalen, tells of his rise to wealth, power and political influence. With the exception of Joe Junior, family members have been the subject of innumerable articles and books.

Jackie, of course, achieved popularity never rivaled. Hall and Pinihat wrote a sympathetic biography of her some years ago. On order for our library is "The Jackie Factories," a study of the writings about the first lady. Also coming soon is Pearl Buck's

"The Kennedy Women," which covers them all from Rose to Carolyn.

After Jack died, interest focused on Robert. There is "Robert Kennedy: The Myth and the Man" by Victor Lasky, and "RFK, the Man Who Would Be President," by Ralph de Toledano. Now the spotlight has fallen on Teddy, though not in quite so favorable manner as on the others. Following is Helen C. Beck's review of "The Bridge at Chappaquiddick."

"The Bridge at Chappaquiddick" by Jack Olsen. Following his carefully researched investigation, which included meticulous examination of the scene and repeated interviews with many of the islanders as well as the county officials, Mr. Olsen, an experienced and award-winning reporter, wrote a reconstruction of what he believes may have actually happened on the night of July 18-19, 1969, when Mary Jo Kopechne died.

There is first a brief biography of Edward Kennedy. Then the regatta at Edgartown leads to the party on Chappaquiddick Island and an introduction to the men and women who attended, followed by the discovery, the following morning, of the submerged car containing the body of Mary Jo Kopechne. One chapter is devoted to the work of the county officials and the harassments they encountered. In conclusion, the author believes Ted Kennedy seems to have ignored two pertinent facts:

(1). That attendance at a party, on a remote island, consisting of married men and single girls, however innocent in concept, appeared to compromise everyone who attended.

(2) That the public is not so naive that it would accept his explanation of the accident — without question.

The public must be excused for wondering. There is more to life than reality; one can be ruined by appearance as well, and it would seem that Senator Kennedy, ambitious to fulfill the inscription on the cigarette case given to him by his brother John, after inauguration "And the last shall be first," would know that better than most.

Mr. Olsen's theory is a startling variance with Sen. Kennedy's account.

Candidates Get Into Act Over Ohio Campus Disorder

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
State disorders took the attention away from political candidates Wednesday and Thursday but most managed to get into the act.

Alerting of the National Guard in the Teamsters' strike and its call-out in the Ohio State University disturbance had hardly been made before candidate publicity mills were going full blast.

Auditor Roger Cloud, a Republican candidate for governor, and Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, a Republican seeking re-election, applauded the action of Gov. James A. Rhodes in calling out troops.

Edwin Lawton, an American Independent Party candidate for governor, blamed the OSU disorder "on weak-livered public officials."

"If we had public officials and school administrators with guts, we wouldn't have school disorders today," Lawton said.

"The blame for violence and disruptive demonstrations must be placed squarely on the shoulders of those weak-livered officials who condone and appease school disorders."

Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown, another Republican for governor, said the OSU administration had an obligation "to identify and expel" all students participating.

"The students suspended should be prohibited from entering any state university in Ohio," Brown said.

At the Ohio State disturbance, the American Civil Liberties Union, said its "observers" agreed with the student government there had been an "indiscriminate use of force" by police and national guardsmen.

Benson A. Wolman, Ohio director of the ACLU, said the observers were professors of law at the school.

John C. McDonald, a Democratic candidate for attorney general, has indicated he will make pollution a campaign issue if he gets his party's nomination.

McDonald contends pollution has been ignored "as a matter of policy" by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources. The state, he contends, has failed to enforce laws against pollution. His attack, in reality, is aimed more against Rhodes.

He was the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd M. Galloway, 801 Dewey Ave., East Liverpool.

Polls released thus far show McDonald, 33, minority leader of the Ohio House, out in front. On the Republican side, John D. Herbert is unopposed for the nomination.

McDonald contends pollution has been ignored "as a matter of policy" by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources. The state, he contends, has failed to enforce laws against pollution. His attack, in reality, is aimed more against Rhodes.

and Atty. Gen. Paul Brown than Herbert.

As state treasurer, Herbert has had little to do with pollution. He has had enough trouble finding a good market for voter-approved bond issues.

Lukens Rips Outbreak At Ohio State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio State University campus violence which began Wednesday afternoon has been blamed by U. S. Rep. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens on a "small, vocal minority of campus radicals."

Lukens, who is a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, called for "suspension, expulsion or even dismissal" of students or faculty members who he said are actively involved in organizing or leading the strike.

Lukens was a member of President Richard Nixon's task force on campus disorders which studied the problem and recommended solutions.

"I think it's time we cracked down on the students and others who foster and precipitate violence on Ohio campuses," Lukens said in a statement he issued on the situation. "Those students convicted of criminal activity, such as the actions at Ohio State, should be expelled, and any faculty member or college staff involved in the disorders should be suspended from their jobs."

"I strongly believe the taxpayers of Ohio and the vast majority of students are fed up with the self-styled radicals who want to disrupt classes with rioting, and just any illegal, criminal activity. I'm convinced these campus radicals really have no public or student interests. They have only their own short-range interests in mind."

PAPYRUS BOAT VOYAGE AGAIN—Norwegian explorer Thor Heyerdahl confers with crew members at Saffi, Morocco, on planning his second attempt, beginning in early May, to cross the Atlantic in a papyrus boat (in background). He failed a year ago, but this time the boat was built by Indians from Bolivia's Lake Titicaca. They've been building and using papyrus boats for centuries and centuries. From left: Kei Chara of Japan, photographer, Santiago Genovese of Mexico, Heyerdahl, Abdullah of Chad. Heyerdahl will have six men in the crew, each from a different nation. He wants to prove ancient Egyptians could have made such a voyage.

Eddie and Jake have been buddies since they could toddle. Together they hiked, fished, argued and leap-frogged the years away. If they weren't at our house, they were at Eddie's. Sundays, Eddie came along to church with us.

They did everything together, dated, played football, went to college. When they joined the Army, they went together.

Jake is coming home next week, but not Eddie. His mother brought his last letter over today. We cried together.

"Dear Mom," Eddie wrote, "Things are pretty bad. I'm glad Jake is here. We talk about home, about God, too. I know you and Dad never cared about church and all, but I think you'll be glad to know I've learned a lot about God from Jake. Whatever happens, I feel close to Him. I'm not scared."

Faith in God is your child's heritage. Take him to church today.

Finch Denies Administration To Abandon Welfare Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch has denied the Nixon administration is on the verge of abandoning its massive welfare reform plan—a disclaimer shared by the senior Republican on the Senate Finance Committee.

"I think they want to push it right on through," Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., told a reporter Thursday after speculation was raised during committee questioning of Finch that the plan might be scrapped.

Finch, who was called back for a third day to testify today, entered a quick denial that the administration was giving up on the program, already approved by the House.

Williams also said he cannot support the bill in its present form.

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla.,

said at Thursday's hearing rumors were circulating the administration had decided to drop the plan. He said he tended to agree with the rumors because of what he called a lukewarm presentation by Finch and Health Education and Welfare Department officials.

Finch said the legislation is extremely complex and acknowledged it has been difficult to answer questions tossed at him, but he added his department will produce all the information requested.

A main flap in the hearing Thursday involved figures in the HEW presentation showing that, in some cases, a family could end up with less total income if the father or mother took a job than if the family head did not work and simply drew the expanded benefits.

The administration's bill sets a yearly $1,600 family income floor for a family of four and brings the working poor into the program for the first time. Other benefits push the amount higher. One of the main purposes of the bill is to increase the incentive to work to welfare recipients.

But Williams said the bill would do just the opposite in some cases.

For example, a Chicago, Ill., four-person family would have a total income from various benefits of $6,206 if the household head earned only $1,000 a year and a smaller total income of $6,109 if the father or mother had much higher earnings of $5,560, the HEW presentation showed.

A New York City family of the same size could have total income of $7,614 without any earnings at all, but only $7,743 if the family head had a job which paid $6,550.

The income in these cases included benefits from food stamps or commodities, medical, and public housing.

Williams said he believed one reason the HEW witnesses seemed lukewarm was that they had compiled this information for him on the eve of the hearings, and the figures probably surprised them.

Finch and his associates agreed the figures were accurate but insisted they were not typical cases.

For one thing, they said, New York has far larger supplementary benefits than most states.

They also emphasized that they had no jurisdiction over food stamps and public housing.

of combating Ohio's crime increase.

Also speaking out on crime was John J. Gilligan, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nod.

He told newsmen in Cincinnati state aid to local law enforcement agencies is essential if the rising crime rate is to be stemmed. "I think it is about time the state admits that its cities can't afford to go it alone," he said.

Roger Cloud, GOP aspirant for governor, said a pay increase to $25 daily for National Guardsmen called to active duty should go into effect immediately, not on June 23 as under current legislation.

He called on the legislature to re-enact the measure to make the increase retroactive to April 29 so that troops called up for the Ohio State University rioting and truck strike would receive it.

War Expansion Geared To Crippling Hanoi

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon administration strategists are gambling the U.S.-South Vietnamese offensive against long-secure North Vietnamese bases inside Cambodia may cripple Hanoi's ability to launch major attacks for months.

They also are counting on the allied offensive to deter North Vietnamese troops from spreading their base areas deeper into weak Cambodia, and possibly opening a new supply route to the Gulf of Siam.

White House sources estimated it would take six weeks to two months to clean out key enemy sanctuaries. Then American and South Vietnamese ground troops are to be pulled back across the border.

Meanwhile, these sources said, the onset of the monsoon rains will seriously inhibit North Vietnamese efforts to reconstruct and resupply base positions for several months.

Then, they calculated, the North Vietnamese will need several more months to send enough arms, ammunition and other material down the Ho Chi Minh trail to support significant military actions.

In this way, it is hoped, any enemy plans for heavy attacks into South Vietnam late this spring and this summer will be blunted.

This would buy more time for the South Vietnamese army to get in shape to take over the ground fighting from the Americans so the U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam may continue in safety.

Implicit, but unsaid, is the prospect that allied forces would be prepared to return to the Cambodian base areas from time to time in an effort to keep the North Vietnamese off balance.

The White House sources said the offensive into Cambodia, while opening a new dimension in the war, will not affect President Nixon's announced plans to remove another 150,000 U.S. troops from Vietnam by May 1971.

This, military sources explained, is because the withdrawal schedule calls for limited pullouts of units over the coming couple of months. The Joint Chiefs of Staff have urged such a course during what is considered a danger period.

Denying that the new U.S.-South Vietnamese offensive is an invasion of Cambodia, the Nixon administration seems to be trying to cast the action as an extension of the Vietnam battle arena.

Noting that such strikes had been forbidden for five years, reporters asked what had changed to make the cross-border offensive imperative now.

White House sources replied that as long as Prince Norodom Sihanouk was in power, the United States had to weigh the benefits of Cambodian neutrality against possible military gains.

But since Sihanouk's overthrow by anti-Communists in March, the sources said, the North Vietnamese have been expanding their Cambodian bases and trying to knit them together which, if successful, would give them much greater freedom of action.

Furthermore, the White House sources said, the North Vietnamese appear to be attempting to run a new supply route to the Gulf of Siam to replace the port of Sihanoukville, closed by the new Cambodian regime as a supply inlet for Communist forces.

American intelligence experts say the closing of Sihanoukville has made it much tougher for the Communist bloc to get arms and other aid to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong fighting in South Vietnam. It has placed a much greater load on the Ho Chi Minh trail through Laos—a route constantly pounded by U.S. warplanes.

When asked why similar cross-border operations haven't been launched into Laos, the White House sources said there are no similar base areas there.

Youthful Solo Sailor Glad Round-The-World Trip Over

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—"I don't like being by myself," mused 21-year-old Robin Lee Graham—having spent 57 months and 33,000 miles being just that to become the youngest person to sail solo around the world.

His 33-foot sloop, The Return of the Dove, the second of two boats he used on his long journey, eased into Long Beach Marina Thursday. Graham stepped ashore into the arms of Patti, 22, the wife he won on the other side of the globe.

"A nice hot bath," was his first fervent wish. "All I know is I'm glad to be home. It's better than being out there."

Out there was Honolulu, Samoa, Tonga, Fiji—where he met Patti, a California girl on a tour—the Solomon Islands, Australia,

South Africa—where he married her seven months later—South America, the Caribbean, through the Panama Canal to the Galapagos Islands and, starting March 5, the final 3,600 miles home.

Graham quit high school to make the voyage and had planned to continue his education through a correspondence course, but he was a bit busy. "There was too much to do aboard the boat to do much studying," he said, "but I did read a lot."

One of the things which kept him away from his books was his original boat, the 24-foot Dove, provided by his parents, which leaked badly and had two broken masts after being battered by storms. He replaced it midway through the journey.

"You have bad days and good," he said of his adventures. "You remember the bad days."

Now, he said, "I'll go back to school. I may pick up some sort of technical trade."

Patti joined her husband at various points along his route but didn't sail with him because "he started alone and he wanted to finish alone."

How did it feel to be home? "Tired."

State Welfare Regulation Voided

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — U. S. District Judge Joseph P. Kinneary Wednesday declared Ohio welfare regulations allowing county departments to terminate grants without giving recipients a chance to appeal unconstitutional.

Ohio's failure to provide hearings, he said, "violates the due process clause of the 14th Amendment."

The court also held the state's failure to notify welfare recipients in advance that they were about to lose grants was a violation of due process.

THE CONVERSION OF SAUL

Scripture—Acts 9:1-31; 11:19-30.

By R. H. RAMSEY
ONE OF THE most important events in the history of the Christian church was the conversion of Saul of Tarsus—known to us as Paul the Apostle. It marked not only a turning point in his personal life, but an epoch in the histories of the church and mankind as well. The transformation of Christianity's most dangerous persecutor into its most successful promoter is nothing short of a miracle of divine grace. Able, highly educated and energetic, Paul became as committed to the propagation of the Christian faith as he—as Saul—had been to its destruction. Almost single-handedly he took primitive Christianity out of the little-known area in which it had arisen and made it a world religion, establishing churches throughout the civilized world of his day.

Born to well-to-do parents of the tribe of Benjamin, Saul had been raised according to the strictest teachings of the scribes and Pharisees and might possibly have been a member of the Sanhedrin. He was also a Roman citizen—a rarity among the Jews—though how his family acquired this distinction is unknown. We first meet Saul as the coat-watcher at and consentor to the stoning of Stephen. Stephen's death aroused such a passionate hatred of Christianity within Saul that he began devoting all his time, energy and influence toward stamping it out. Thus it was that he was called to Damascus to handle the extradition to Jerusalem of a group of Christians imprisoned there. Nearing Damascus, a heavenly light shone upon Saul, felling him. Out of the light a voice called his name and asked the reason for his persecution. Frightened, Saul unconsciously used the term "lord" in asking who was speaking. The voice identified itself as Jesus and again questioned Saul's reason for his persecution of the Christians. In Paul's first letter to the

"The Tie That Binds" will be the sermon topic Sunday morning at Calvary United Methodist Church. Youth Fellowship will meet 6:30 p.m. in the annex. The Mother-Daughter Party will be held 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the annex.

The Sunday morning sermon topic at the Church of the Brethren will be "There Is Good News Today." The evening sermon will be "Jesus, The Lamb Of God." In the morning worship there will be a dedication service for the new hymn board, attendance board and carpet. A note burning ceremony will celebrate paying off indebtedness. Following the morning service there will be a carry-in dinner. At 1 p.m. the congregation will meet to discuss and ratify the new plan of church organization. The Wednesday prayer and Bible study discussion topic will be "Doctrine Of The Church."

Members of the Minni Mates 4-H group will be special guests Sunday morning at Community United Methodist Church. The sermon topic selected is "Creative Restraint." The May Fellowship Dinner of The Women's Society will be held 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in the church dining rooms. The theme will be "Melodies Of Spring."

Corinthians he claims to have seen the risen Lord, recognized Him and placed himself in complete submission to Him. He was told to go into the city and wait. Upon arising, Saul discovered he had been blinded by his experience, making it necessary for him to be led into Damascus. There he remained without food or drink for three days until the Lord sent the disciple Ananias to lay his hands upon him and restore his vision. Filled with the Holy Spirit, Saul was baptized, changed his name to Paul and went into the synagogues to preach that Jesus of Nazareth was not only the promised Messiah but also the very Son of God.

Saul's defection amazed and angered Damascus Jewish leaders and they decided to have him arrested and killed. Aided by the disciples, Paul was smuggled out of Damascus and into Jerusalem. Despite their belief in the Lord's power to transform the lives of men, the Jerusalem

Christians did not exactly welcome their former persecutor with open arms. As a whole they suspected him of treachery and refused to allow him to join them. The lone exception was Barnabas. He accepted the sincerity and genuineness of Paul's conversion and risked his own standing within the church to espouse Paul's cause. As a result Paul was accepted, undoubtedly conditionally at first, but wholeheartedly later on. Some time later, Barnabas sought out Paul to go with him to Syrian Antioch to investigate a reported establishment of an active church among the Gentiles there. He sought Paul after discovering the Antiochene Christians needed a deeper ministry of teaching than he was able to give them. Paul and Barnabas spent an entire year in Antioch, bringing a deeper knowledge of the Word and a richer experience with the Holy Spirit. There, for the first time, the disciples and followers of Jesus were called "Christians."

Older Issues Are Hit Hard By Candidates

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Few new issues are being brought up by statewide candidates in their final days of campaigning before Tuesday's primary, but old ones such as pollution, education, crime and narcotics were hard hit themes. John J. Gilligan, Democratic candidate for governor, touring Apple Creek State Hospital Wednesday, called for "the highest state priority for treatment, education and training for Ohio's mentally retarded."

He met a committee of parents whose children are Apple Creek patients, and noted that "national authorities say 85 per cent of children suffering from mental retardation can be trained and given a chance to lead a normal life—but Ohio is providing training programs for only about 15 per cent of those children."

One major problem, Gilligan said, in implementing adequate training programs is the high turnover rate at most state institutions.

In Youngstown, Gilligan appealed to Ohio school children to "urge your parents to keep the schools open until a new state administration can begin channeling state funds to local school districts."

State Auditor Roger Cloud, continuing his helicopter campaigning for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, said he was encouraged by endorsements of 18 Ohio newspapers. In Youngstown, speaking to students, he challenged Gilligan to "quit thinking in terms of the past and start spelling out solutions for the future."

Cloud said he "relishes the opportunity the fall campaign provides to compare Republican credibility and financial stability in state government with the ineptness of other Democratic administrations."

In other appearances Cloud hit hard at pollution, urging tough state sanctions against polluters.

Cloud, as well as Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, who is accompanying him on past campaign trips, both had praise of Gov. James A. Rhodes' "Quick action in calling out the National Guard to quell student disturbances at Ohio State University" late Wednesday and early Thursday.

In a campaign statement, Rhodes, candidate for the GOP U.S. Senate nomination in which he is opposed by Rep. Robert Taft Jr., called for tripling the size of the Federal Narcotics Bureau as the first step in a "massive attack on the nation's growing drug menace."

Modern Radicals Hold Little Hope

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—Advocates of radical change whose battle against "the system" includes attacks on age-old sexual standards are not of the same sturdy mettle that characterized genuine revolutionaries of history.

That's the conclusion of Dr. Vernard Eller, professor of religion at Laverne College, a Church of the Brethren institution in California. Consequently, he adds, today's convention-defiers offer "little promise for the future."

He says that "some of the most successful social revolutionaries" of the past, which sought justice and righteousness, also demanded adherence to strict sexual codes. But the "libertine revolutionaries," belittling sex disciplines, founded, he notes, accomplishing little. "They are found today only as footnotes in the dusty history books."

He sees a parallel between them and some modern youths who, in challenging social blights such as war, poverty and racism, also assail standards of sexual restraint as among the oppressions to be displaced.

Their "revolution is on very shaky ground, lacks power at the core," he writes in the Christian Century.

To back his case, he cites the "hard-nosed view" against sexual permissiveness characteristic not only of the colonial New England Puritans in defying the British establishment but of many other powerful reform movements.

Scholarship Loan Program Bared By Gov. Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Establishment of a $1.3 million scholarship loan guarantee program for rural students in technical education was announced Thursday by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Money for the program will come from liquidation of a fund established between the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Ohio Department of Agriculture.

Money from the Ohio Rural Rehabilitation Corp. will make between $25 and $30 million in loans available to rural students in vocational and technical education. The fund will be used to guarantee loans.

Details of the program have not been completed, but funds are expected to be available by this fall, Rhodes said.

These, he said, included the 16th century Protestant reformers John Knox in Scotland, John Calvin in Geneva, the radical Anabaptist peasant uprisings in northern Europe, and the grandfather of all puritanism, Old Testament monotheism.

"Each of these groups represented not the cultural establishment but the revolution," he says. And each shared a common attitude—"what we have called a hard-nosed view regarding sexual permissiveness."

To the list might be added the strong, religious-moral orientation of the American revolutionary leaders, of Gandhi's followers in resisting colonial rule in India, of the early Christians in their endurance against persecutions of a licentious, declining ancient Roman Empire.

Dr. Eller, citing the Reformation period revolts and the ancient Hebrew struggle against the fertility cult of Baalism, said each resisted governmental intimidation and control, each established some form of participatory democracy and preventing wide gaps of economic and class distinction.

"Nowhere else can there be found better models of what the contemporary revolution aspires to," he says. And "the sexual puritanism of all these groups was an integral part of their respective revolutions."

"None of it was 'Victorianism,' none of it a sophisticated, prissy, effete disdain of sexuality. Quite the contrary, all of these puritan movements were marked by a certain earthiness and intimacy with life."

"These peoples were tough-gutted as well as hard-nosed; they were not celibates; they had no illusions (or hangups) of sex."

about the reality and character of sex. Their puritanical posture was motivated not out of fear or delicacy but precisely out of respect and honor for the power of sex."

Mr. Magill noted that the industry was mounting a major drive in May to acquire every cyclist with his responsibility to keep his bicycle in safe operating condition, and to operate it safely in traffic. Thousands of bicycle retailers, he said, will be cooperating with the local civic, service, police school, veterans and fraternal organizations in conducting community bicycle safety education campaigns, rodeos, field days and inspections.

Harrison Twp. Voters Asked To Renew Levy

A local tax issue facing Harrison Twp. voters Tuesday is the tax renewal levy to provide continued fire protection to the township.

Passage of the renewal levy is needed to provide and maintain fire fighting equipment to benefit the district.

The tax levy is not new but a renewal of an existing levy. The rate would remain the same for district taxpayers of one-half mill, which is five cents for each $100 valuation of property.

The levy would be assessed for a period of five years commencing 1970, if approved by voters.

5 School Levies To Be On May Primary Ballot

Five school tax levies will appear on the May 5 primary ballot for district area voters. One levy is renewal only. Four are proposed additional levies.

School districts seeking additional levies are Teays Valley, Westfall and Adena district which involves voters in the southwestern section of the county.

All officials and governing boards of the schools requesting additional tax levies concur that increased school enrollment has required more teachers and more educational supplies thereby increasing the cost per pupil. At the same time, the cost per pupil has risen due to inflation.

This has necessitated the request for additional funds for school operation.

THE school tax levy for mentally retarded children of Pickaway County will be voted on in all county districts.

The proposed one-half mill levy is for the purpose of building maintenance, operation and support of the School for Retarded Children. Rate of the levy would amount to five cents for each $100 valuation. It would be for a period of five years commencing 1970.

Logan Elm School District is seeking renewal of an 11-mill levy. The renewal is asked to provide current operating expenses of the school for continuation beginning 1970. The levy would amount to $1.10 for each one hundred ($100) of valuation.

Voters in the Westfall district will be voting for a new 4-mill operating levy. It is emphasized the levy is for operation of the schools and not a bond issue which is for construction.

The additional tax would provide current operating expenses at a rate which would amount to 40 cents each year for each $100 valuation.

The levy would be for a continuing period beginning in 1970.

A SIMILAR proposed tax levy is being asked by Teays Valley School District. The 4-mill levy for current operating expenses would be at the rate of 40 cents for each $100 of valuation, also for a continuing period beginning 1970.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Animal World," which replaced Pat Paulsen's short-lived comedy series on ABC Thursday night, really made a return instead of a premiere.

The series of actuality programs about wildlife was launched as a summer replacement called "Animal Kingdom" on NBC in 1968. There was a tangle over the title with Marlin Perkins and "Wild Kingdom," also on NBC, and the title was changed. Then last summer the series moved to CBS for a few months.

Now set for the summer on ABC, "Animal World" appears in danger of running out of networks, but not if all its programs are as interesting and appealing as the season's opener. It had all of the charm of that old CBS series starring Clarence the cross-eyed lion and a lot more authenticity.

The half-hour program was the first of a two-part sequence showing the efforts of the Malaysian government to save the orangutan, a friendly, human-like ape which has been hunted — for zoos and pets — until it is threatened with extinction.

The government set up a sort of orangutan nursery in the rain forests of Borneo where orphaned or kidnapped little apes are restored to health, permitted to mature and ultimately returned to their natural environment.

Delightful portions of the program showed the young orangutans luxuriating in the security of their sanctuary. Scenes of authorities picking up chained and abused young apes had a slightly staged look but probably were accurate enough simulations of real conditions.

President Nixon's sobering address to the nation Thursday night was followed on each of the three networks by a brief period of analysis.

The periods turned out to be less discussions of the speech than informed speculation on the results of the President's decision to attack enemy sanctuaries in Cambodia.

NBC handled the speech by interrupting a rerun of "Ironside" and picking up about 40 minutes later. ABC concluded its analysis precisely at 9:30 EDT and started "The Tom Jones Show" a half hour later. CBS simply delayed the start of its movie until the correspondents concluded their wrapup.

"The Engelbert Humperdinck Show" did not appear on ABC's fall schedule, but could be a top candidate for a midseason replacement if it receives improved ratings in a new time slot during the summer. Its reruns will follow Lawrence Welk on Saturday nights.

House Turns Back Moves To Suspend MIRV Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP) — An effort to suspend part of the U.S. MIRV nuclear warhead buildup — which opponents said could wreck the U.S.-Soviet disarmament talks — has been defeated by the House.

An amendment to cut all $471.7 million for MIRV-tipped Minuteman III missiles from the $20.24 billion military weapons authorization was rejected Wednesday 85 to 39.

Rep. Jeffrey Cohelan, D-Calif., the amendment's sponsor, called the buildup incomprehensible in the face of U.S. efforts to negotiate disarmament with the Soviets.

He said the Soviet response could be to mount a capability to launch a first-strike nuclear attack against the United States.

But Rep. Leslie C. Arends, R-Ill., said the Soviets already appear to be building a first-strike capability and the U.S. MIRV buildup and Safeguard antimissile system are needed to deter it.

The Soviet arsenal of 275 SS-9 missiles appears aimed at knocking out U.S. retaliatory missiles in a first-strike attack, Arends said.

Russia would need only 200 SS-9s to retaliate against U.S. cities if the United States attacked first, he said.

"The fact is that the Soviets are still installing missiles that make no sense except as a threat to our Minutemen," Arends said.

ends said. "We must take this threat seriously."

MIRV, for Multiple Independently Targetable Re-entry Vehicles, is a cluster of nuclear warheads that the Minuteman III drops off one by one on enemy targets as it flies over them.

The House also defeated, 90 to 48, an amendment by Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., to cut $200 million C-5 cargo plane money which Pike called a slush fund for Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

The two amendments were the first of some $4 billion in cuts proposed by House military spending critics.

The Red and Black Reserve's Winning Spirit Promises Great Future

By BILLY THOMAS
Greg Heiskell, a flashy sixteen year-old junior golfer, assumes the role of number one linkster on the CHS golf squad. The son of Mr. and Mrs. William Heiskell of 912 Circle Drive, Greg has been playing golf since he was ten years old and finds it is paying off. Already this season he has carded a 38 over nine holes, and owns a career low of 36. "I think we have a good team with SCO material on it," he stated. Although golf occupies most of Greg's time, he still enjoys swimming and working on golf courses. After graduation he will attend college.

Four years of hard work adds up to a 49 stroke average for nine holes for David Grigg, a sophomore making his bid for a berth on CHS's golf squad. Though this is his first year of high school golf, he has already made an impression with his steady drives and accurate putts.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Grigg of 905 Atwater Ave., Dave states, "We have good players and we are a better team than our record shows." Dave is a member of the band and will go to college after graduation.

Bob Downey, a sixteen-year-old sophomore enrolled in the college prep course, is now in his third year of competitive golf and has the makings of a great one. Bob, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Downey of 575 Plaza Drive, believes that this year's team should do very well in the league match. Besides golf Bob participates in football and basketball, making him a busy young athlete. College is in his future.

"Really great" says Tom Wagner about this year's chances of being league champions. Tony, as he is called by his friends, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wagner of 410 Sunnyside Drive. Now in his third year of golfing, Tony impresses everyone with his enthusiasm and steadiness under fire. Besides being an avid sports fan Tony finds time to be in Hi-Y and play basketball. He is a member of the First Baptist Church and plans a college education.

All four of these underclassmen exhibit an overwhelmingly winning spirit that will most certainly guide them to a championship. Because of this attitude, golf will be in good hands in the future.

Gayla was elected to the office of president and when asked her reaction to being chosen she replied, "I was shocked and surprised. As my job as president, I hope to help make the club larger and plan more activities."

Gayla is enrolled in the business course and is a 4-H club president and a Junior Fairboard member. In her spare time Gayla enjoys swimming, sewing and cooking. Becky McCoy, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell McCoy of 932 S. Pickaway St., has been elected new FHA treasurer.

Becky has just recently taken in as a new member of FHA. Her reaction to being elected to treasurer was, "I was shocked because I haven't been in the club very long. I will try my best to keep the treasury records up to date and correct." Becky has one sister and three brothers. Her activities include Sophomore SOS, choir, and Nimble Thimbles 4-H club.

Vice president of FHA will be Patty Weethee, who lives with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Norman Weethee at 201 Nicholas Drive. Besides FHA Patty is active in DECA and Rainbow Girls. In her spare time she enjoys camping and cooking.

Patty stated "I couldn't believe it. I had to ask several of the FHA members, to make sure it was I they had elected as vice president."

New secretary for FHA will be Linda Hutchinson, who lives with her aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hutchinson at 438 E. Ohio St.

This is Linda's second year in FHA. This year she held the office of news reporter. Besides FHA, she is a member of the CHS choir.

Linda said, "I didn't expect to be elected, and I was real happy when I found out I was elected secretary." Linda stated "I hope to do the best I possibly can and I hope to be of help to the club as secretary."

WALTER GRUESER

Instructor Hails From W. Virginia

By BETH SPIRES

In a casual interview in the teacher's conference room, Walter Gruesser, an American history teacher at CHS, talked about himself.

Born at Mason, West Virginia, at "the big bend of the Ohio River" he noted, he attended high school in Pomeroy, Ohio. He mentioned that the high school there was flooded annually. While a student, he was a member of the Spanish Club.

Attending Ohio University, a 15-minute drive from his hometown, he majored in comprehensive social studies. While there, he met his future wife Carol, who was majoring in business administration. Mr. Gruesser mentioned that he was first introduced to his wife on a blind date to attend a philosophy lecture to hear a theologian from a divinity school. He did his student teaching at Nelsonville, and in June 1966 received his bachelor of science degree in education.

That summer, the Gruessers moved to Circleville and they presently live at 1079 Georgia Road. They have one daughter, Amanda Sue, who is twenty months old.

Mr. Gruesser enjoys films with pertinent social comments such as "They Shoot Horses Don't They?" He also listens to South Africa, Rome and Radio Peking on his shortwave radio. The Gruessers enjoy traveling and visiting historical sites.

They spend their summer vacations in New Jersey near the Atlantic Ocean. During spring break they visited the Metropolitan Museum in New York where they saw artifacts of many ancient civilizations.

Besides being adviser of Hi-Y, Mr. Gruesser is in charge of junior high track and intramural basketball. He has spent several summers tutoring students in government and history, besides teaching summer school.

Mr. Gruesser talked of his philosophy on life: "An individual has to meet situations in life as they come about. One must have some kind of idealistic view of life to strive for. The key idea that people should realize is that everyone on this planet is a human being. If a person subscribes to Christian ethics, he believes that everyone is his brother. Ideals are geared to trying to bring about the fulfillment of the principles of this country especially in the areas of social equality and social justice."

Jr. High Holds Career Days

By PATTY ARLEDGE and NANCY MARSHALL

A program sponsored by the American Assn. of University Women for all seventh grade girls, was initiated last year and is being continued this year at CJHS. The program is called career day and is to aid these girls in preparing for the occupation that they have chosen for future years.

The first service career program was held Thursday afternoon, March 16. Mrs. Richard Gerhardt was chairman of the committee. The program offered careers in social work, youth work, police women, and lives of a service woman.

Mrs. Peggy Dean was chairman of the second career program which was presented April 21. This program covered careers in banking, legal secretary, managing a small business, and working for large companies.

The third career program will be presented May 7. This program will be offering Home Economics for all girls interested. Mrs. Robert Perry will be chairman of this committee.

Heading up the entire project are Mrs. Lynn Fisher and her assistant Mrs. Helen West. Mrs. Fisher hopes to have better turnouts in the future, feeling that this program can be interesting and helpful for the girls in later life.

Refreshments are served after each meeting and all 7th grade girls are strongly urged to attend.

Fiske O'Hara Is Earth Day Guest

By MIKE VAUGHAN

Earth Day at Circleville High School was a mass of activity. This day, April 22, was devoted to the prevention of all kinds of pollution nationwide.

Mr. Fiske O'Hara, a works engineer at the local DuPont plant, spoke to two assemblies about the enormous water and air pollution in and around Pickaway County. O'Hara also noted the different kinds of treatments and "cures" for the pollution problem.

Mr. William Brooke's biology classes collected trash from the Hargus Creek area behind the high school and from Nicholas Drive in front of the Nicholas Drive Elementary School in effort to do their part.

Students at Circleville High School hope that the first Earth Day will not be the last Earth Day and that this one day promotion turns into a full scale renovation of America's countryside.

Well, cast members, are you glad or sad that your big production number is over?

Drug Assembly Gets Raves From Students
By TY ANKROM and BILL THOMAS

Last Thursday the students of CHS enjoyed the best assembly that has been presented in recent years. An assembly so good, in fact, that interest sparked on the faces of students and teachers alike.

Dr. Little, an osteopath from Lafayette, Ind., brought five former drug abusers from the Halfway House located in Lafayette, who presented to the students the cold, hard facts of drug addiction through personal experiences.

Each of the gentlemen gained the respect and admiration of the student body with their frankness and ability to communicate.

Never before had a student body at CHS listened so intently and taken part so enthusiastically at an assembly. Showing their appreciation at the close, the students gave the men a standing ovation that came straight from their hearts.

The only regret was that not enough time was allotted for the question and answer period. Summing up the attitude of the school, one junior girl said, "For once — I wasn't bored!"

Business Classes Tour Institute

By GINNY GILLIS
CHS business students who are considering schooling after graduation, have been touring the Columbus Technical Institute.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL McGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

With the coming of summer and the joyous shouts of "School's Out!" memories come back to those of us who are classed middle aged. According to the youth group this includes all over 30.

This is the breaking point where your youthful vigor, is replaced by Vigoro and yard work.

The youth of today will get out their shiny new bikes, ball bearing skates, fine sporting equipment and prepare for a summer of fun. Of course most of it will be pre-arranged and supervised.

It is all well and good and we are for these kids all the way but we can't help looking back to our summer vacations with makeshift equipment and wonder if maybe the kids of today are missing something.

Remember the hot afternoons on a vacant lot with a taped ball and bat . . . rocks for bases . . . choosing sides and playing one of those wild ball games which always ended with the sound of Mothers voices calling "Supper time".

How long has it been since you've seen kids playing mibs in hopes of adding to their collection of multi-color aggies and rare crystal shooters?

What ever happened to those fabulous games that our minds created such as Kick the Can . . . Ducky, on the Rock . . . Run Sheepy Run . . . Buck-Buck-How Many Fingers Up . . . Corn Cob Fights . . . Andy Over The Barn . . . King of the Hill . . . and anything our imagination created?

According to the toys of today these things may seem crude and simple . . . I guess they were . . . maybe that was part of the fun . . . but if you've never tried them . . . don't knock them.

Our little gem of information — Babe Ruth was the walkingest player of all with 2,056 free strolls to first base for a total of 35 miles. Next are Ted Williams 2,018, Mel Ott 1,708, Eddie Yost 1,614, Stan Musial 1,599 and PeeWee Reese 1,210.

Our "fearless" forecast — My Dad George will husk Corn On The Cob in the run for the Roses . . . Paul Hang will be hung when Dr. Behrman is late for office hours.

Until next time, have a nice day — be a good sport.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants, trading for more depth at quarterback, have obtained veteran Dick Shiner from the Pittsburgh Steelers for line-backer Henry Davis and running back John Fugua.

The deal Thursday was made 24 hours before the National Football League's deadline for inter-conference trading.

Logan Elm Tops Vikings

Freshmen Pace Win At Plate, On Mound

Logan Elm downed Teays Valley, 6-4, Thursday behind the performances of a pair of freshmen starters.

Doug Marshall was the winning pitcher in his first start, fanning three, walking two and allowing nine hits.

Gary Francis provided the power at the plate, blasting two singles and a double in five trips to the plate, driving in one run and scoring twice himself.

Marshall received excellent defensive support from the LE squad. "It was our best defensive game of the year," according to Coach Vick Pontius who pointed out the team had 12 assists in the tilt.

THE Braves took advantage of control problems on the part of the Teays Valley hurler in the first inning. Steve Curtis walked, Bob Triplehorn singled and Wirtie Teets was hit by a pitched ball to load the bases.

Then K. C. Jones and Mike Holbrook were walked to force in two runs. In the second inning Francis singled, stole second and then scored on two passed balls.

The fourth run for LE came in the top of the fifth when Teets walked, Jones laid down a perfect bunt hit and then Mike Holbrook advanced both runners with a sacrifice. Marshall drove in Teets on a fielder's choice before the side was retired.

The Vikings came to life in the bottom of the fifth when Lombardo, Dan Hicks and Wayne Brown hit consecutive singles to account for one run and Don Sir drove in another with a sacrifice fly.

In the top of the seventh the Braves scored what proved to be the winning runs. Holbrook led off with a walk, stole second and scored on Francis' double.

Francis stole third and scored on an attempted pickoff play.

Teays Valley's runs in the seventh came when Brown hit his fourth consecutive single of the game and then Sir blasted a homerun.

FOR Teays Valley, Merritt started and was relieved by Spurlock in the fifth inning. Between them they fanned ten and walked nine and hit one batter and gave up eight hits.

Singles by the Braves were hit by Fouch, Triplehorn, Teets and K. C. Jones. Curtis cracked a double.

The top hitters for the Vikings were Brown, who was four for four at the plate, Schiff, who hit two singles in three trips and Stir with his homerun. Lombardo and Hicks had one single each.

Logan Elm now has a 6-5 record on the season. Monday the Braves play at Uniono and Wednesday at Westfall in the Central District Tournament opener.

Ryan, Mets Defeat Giants, Win 4-1

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

Nolan Ryan dazzled National League batters during April but the flame-throwing New York Mets' right-hander closed out the month on a gradual downhill slide.

The 23-year-old speedballer set down San Francisco 4-1 Thursday, limiting the Giants to three hits while striking out eight and walking eight. Not a bad performance, however, considering Ryan's two previous starts.

—A one-hitter in a 7-0 victory over Philadelphia on April 18, striking out 15 batters.

—A two hitter in which he dropped a 1-0 decision to Los Angeles, April 25, striking out five.

Thursday's performance by the Alvin, Tex., resident, evened his record in two-plus major league seasons to 14-14 and he has now struck out 259 batters in 252 innings.

The 6-foot-2, 195-pounder's credentials for this season: An 0.69 earned run average in 26 innings, two earned runs, six hits, 28 strikeouts, 20 walks and a 2-1 record.

Atlanta creamed Chicago 9-2 and Los Angeles edged Montreal 2-1 in the only other NL games played. Houston at St. Louis was called by rain.

Ryan's third complete game of the season gave him more than he had all of last year when he finished but two games in a 6-3 season. His victory also was the world champion Mets' 10th triumph in April, establishing a club record. Ryan's eight bases on balls also set a club record.

Ryan was supported by Tommie Agee's homer and a two-run single by Joe Foy. Bud Harrelson tripled and was driven home by Cleon Jones' single for the Mets' other tally. The Giants lone run came on a walk, a single by Hal Lanier, a sacrifice and Bobby Bonds' groundout.

Also closing out a torrid month of April was the hot-hitting left fielder of the Braves, Rico Carty. Carty boomed two homers, including a grand slam in the first inning and Hank Aaron and Hal King chipped in with solo blasts in the Braves' rout of the Cubs.

Cary's homers, his sixth and seventh of the season, also stretched his hitting streak to 20 games and upped his batting average to .423, second best in the league. He also has driven in 23 runs.

George Stone, 3-1 stopped the Cubs on six hits and struck out a career high of 10 batters.

Jim Hickman rapped a homer off the southpaw in the ninth inning, making a total of 34 round-trippers hit out of Atlanta Stadium in nine games. All five blasts Thursday night carried over 400 feet with Aaron's estimated at over 500 feet.

Chicago's Billy Williams became the first player in NL history to play in 1,000 straight games but went hitless in four trips.

Rookie right-hander Sandy Vance scattered four hits in gaining his first major league victory and got all the support he needed when the Dodgers scored twice in the opening in-ings.

Singles by Maury Wills and Ted Sizemore and a walk to Willie Davis loaded the bases. Andy Kosco struck out but Wes Parker walked to force in one run and a forceout bouncer by Willie Crawford brought in the other.

Montreal's run came in the fourth when Kosco slammed into the right field wall while chasing Bobby Wine's fly ball. Wine flew around the bases for an inside-the-park homer and Kosco had to leave the game with a bruised cheekbone and a laceration inside his ear.

Vance, a 23-year-old, recalled from the Pacific Coast League to fill Bill Singer's spot in the starting rotation, struck out three and walked three.

NBA Players Go To Court To Halt Merger With ABA

NEW YORK (AP) — Players from the National Basketball Association go to court today to try to stop a merger with the American Basketball Association.

A judge in U.S. District Court was to hear arguments from the players' attorneys asking for an injunction against the merger. The leagues are currently under a restraining order prohibiting them from merger talks.

Meanwhile, a high basketball official who declined identification said Thursday night that the leagues had already agreed to merge.

This brought denials from Commissioner Walter Kennedy of the NBA and Ray Patterson, president of the Milwaukee Bucks of the NBA.

The NBA players' association contends a marriage of the leagues would eliminate all competition for talent in pro basketball. College players now have a choice of either league.

The restraining order was obtained by attorneys for the 14 player representatives of the NBA teams, who filed an anti-trust suit two weeks ago.

On Thursday night, the official told the Associated Press that a merger agreement was reached at a recent meeting between the leagues.

He said the terms called for full integration of the leagues along the lines set up by the National and American football leagues. He said the NBA and ABA would play under their own banners for three years with a common draft and exhibition games. Then, at the end of the third year, the leagues would merge under one banner.

In an allied development, the owner of the Los Angeles Stars said he will relocate his team in accordance with the merger agreement. Bill Daniels said relocation of the Stars is a condition of the merger to protect territorial rights of the NBA's Los Angeles Lakers.

Also among conditions believed to be settled was withdrawal of an anti-trust suit against the NBA and some agreement over the ABA's so-called invasion of territory of the NBA's Baltimore franchise by Washington of the junior league.

Jack Dolph, president of the ABA, was unavailable for comment Thursday night.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Donovan F.
Sheilhammer, who passed away
May 1st, 1969.
Your favorite spot by Hargus Lake,
The one by Marty's Pond,
The guns that stood so silent,
Now that you are gone,
Little did we know that day you left,
To catch those fish for me,
That God would steal in along the bank,
And whisper, "Don, Come with Me."
So, rest in Peace, Dear Don,
As I walk this earth alone,
Until the day He comes for me,
And then we'll both be Home.
So sadly missed by wife,
Mildred, daughters Patty and Karen, son-in-law, Harley and grandchildren.

Ohio Campuses In Trouble, But No Violence Reported

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio State University wasn't the only campus in the state with troubles Thursday, but problems at other schools were being resolved through less violent means.

At Ohio Wesleyan University in Delaware, where students occupied the ROTC building Wednesday, the faculty recommended a campus-wide referendum on whether to give university credit for ROTC courses.

The faculty agreed also to petition President Nixon to unilaterally withdraw American forces from southeast Asia.

About 200 students remained in the ROTC building until 4 a.m. Thursday, when University President Thomas E. Wenzlau guaranteed them the questions of credit for ROTC and U.S. involvement in southeast Asia would be brought before the faculty.

Bowling Green State University President William T. Jerome III and his advisory council told a group of Negro students Thursday the school would look into problems raised by the Black Students Union.

The militant black students, demanding increased enrollment for blacks, more black professors and a black students curriculum, had threatened a campaign to prevent other black students from enrolling unless the administration met with them.

Jerome said some of the students' demands were justified and could be worked out. Some of the programs asked already are under way, he said. And others will be referred to university committees for action.

Gerald Gillingham of Cincinnati, spokesman for the black students, said the group is adopting a wait-and-see attitude, but added:

"We feel that things will be resolved in good faith and as soon as possible."

At Youngstown State University, President Albert Pugsley took under advisement Thursday a list of 15 demands made of the university by students.

Demands included establishment of a black studies program, disarming of campus security guards and removal of city police from the campus.

Representing the state at the hearing was Assistant Prosecuting Attorney David Kraft.

Pipefitters, Plumbers Start Strike

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Pipefitters and plumbers in Greater Cleveland went on strike at midnight Thursday following expiration of their three-year contracts.

However, a contract covering 2,200 painters, also due to expire at midnight, was extended to May 8 by the Painters District Council.

The contract extension was announced by Neil DeMarco, executive secretary of the union, following negotiations with the Painting and Decorating Institute.

Mickey Donahue, business agent of Pipefitters Local 120, said the local's strike was against the Mechanical Contractors Association, the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Contractors Association and the National Association of Fire Protection and Sprinkler Contractors.

He said negotiations for a new contract were continuing and that the union was asking a wage increase of about 15 percent in each of the next three years.

Donahue said the contractors rejected a union proposal that any benefits gained in a new contract be retroactive to May 1.

Richard Cleary, chairman of the Plumbers Local 55 Conference Committee, announced the strike of about 1,500 plumbers against the Cleveland Plumbing Contractors Association.

Vickroy Enters Guilty Plea In Auto Deaths

Appearing in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Thursday for arraignment on two charges of vehicular manslaughter was Robert W. Vickroy, 27, of Columbus, who was indicted by the April term of the grand jury in the death of two Washington C. H. women in January.

The former Circleville resident heard the charges and waived his rights to an attorney and jury trial, entering a plea of guilty to the charges. Investigation revealed that he was intoxicated at the time of the accident and had been arrested several times prior to the fatal collision for drunken driving.

Judge Ammer imposed a double maximum 1-20 year jail term on Vickroy, noting that both sentences would run concurrently. He is to be held at the Mansfield Reformatory.

Arraignment for the young man was postponed earlier while he underwent studies at Lima State Hospital at the request of authorities.

Sharon Marie Lambert and Teresa Sue Underwood were killed in the accident at the intersection of Route 22 and 56 while returning from work at the Circleville GE lamp plant.

Probation Given In Forgery Case

Marcella Mumaw Dyke, Clinton St., who was indicted by the April term of the Pickaway County grand jury for forgery, was placed on probation for three years Thursday by Judge William Ammer.

Mrs. Dyke, 19, entered a plea of guilty to passing a forged check in the amount of $72 to Lloyd Davis with the signature of Ronald Hall. While investigating, authorities discovered the young woman had written $305 in checks not covered by an account, for which charges had not been filed against her.

The judge suspended Mrs. Dyke's sentence to Marysville Reformatory and listed among the terms of her probation that she may not open a checking account or have any checks in her possession. He also ordered her to finish payment by Sept. 1 of the $116 balance still owed for the bad checks she had written.

A note was made in the court record correcting an error on the affidavit, changing her name from Marcella Mumaw, as it was originally signed, to Marcella Dyke.

Suffering from multiple injuries was Gregg Green, son of Mrs. Carol Green. Police said the youth landed on his head on concrete.

Business Briefs

Mr. Seymour and Mr. Reeser were in the top 265 agents in the country and received cash awards for being in the Production Club. Mr. Davis was in the top 60 of associate sales managers.

Mary Kendall, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. William Voss, Ashville; Alan M. Shull, 458 E. Main St., were among the more than 15,000 distributors attending the 11th International Convention of Amway Corporation and their independent distributors April 23-25 in Grand Rapids, Mich.

An entirely new shopping cart and checkout system of revolutionary design and concept is going to make shopping more convenient and easier than ever before at Ward's Market.

The new carts, called "Visa-Matic O.T.C.'s", are taller than conventional carts with a large rectangular shaped basket that is just the right height for fast, easy loading. Being as packaged goods fit into the basket perfectly enabling the shopper to place, rather than throw purchases into the basket. Although the first impression may be that the basket will not hold as much as conventional baskets, the flat bottom and straight sides permit neater loading and the capacity is surprising. Because of the greater height of the cart, a much larger tray capacity is possible and the accessibility to this lower area is vastly improved. Bagged items, large packages such as detergents, and beverages can be placed without stooping or straining. A small sundries tray at the rear of the cart and below the baby seat is handy for storage of small packaged items. Leg holes provided for the baby seat may be closed with a durable plastic flap, and items may be placed in the baby seat area without danger of falling through the leg holes.

The new cart is well balanced, glides along easily with minimum effort, and maneuvers around corners safely.

The best part of the new cart and its companion checkout counter, however, is demonstrated at the register area. If the lines seem shorter and move faster, there's a good reason.

The customer glides the new cart into the end of the checkstand and the checker takes over! She lowers a hinged front gate on the top basket to the counter-top and begins to check-thru the items from basket to counter by simply shifting them in a straight line forward as she rings them up on the register. The customer has nothing to do but observe the register "ring-up" and prepare to pay for the groceries.

As the checker rings up each item, she simply advances the cart over the counter (the name "Visa-Matic O.T.C." means Over-The-Counter) until the last item in the top basket is checked. When it is empty, she flips up the top basket to reveal all of the items on the lower tray and in the sundries basket. If the customer desires to use the basket as a carryout cart, the items need not be removed, but the checker has no difficulty in removing these lower items and placing them on the counter.

Surprisingly, the cart may be reloaded with the bagged groceries and guided past the counter on the checker's side. A unique "cantilever" design in the cart chassis permits this passage, eliminating any necessity for the customer to guide the cart through the customer's aisle.

Resume Search For Wreckage Of TAG Plane

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The National Transportation Safety Board planned to resume a search today for the wreckage of a TAG Airlines plane which crashed in Lake Erie last Jan. 28.

The plane, carrying seven passengers and two crewmen, crashed through the ice on the lake about 20 miles northwest of Cleveland shortly after taking off from Burke Lakefront Airport here bound for Detroit. There were no survivors.

Order Prohibits Arrest For Smut

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Common Pleas Court Judge Tom Moody issued an order Thursday prohibiting police from repeatedly arresting alleged smut peddlers. Moody, who two days earlier declined to issue such an order, said police can take other legal approaches to enforce obscenity laws without continually harassing booksellers.

Attempts to restart the search Thursday were thwarted by a severe thunderstorm. A safety board spokesman in Washington said dragging operations would be started today in an effort to locate the wreckage.

Delay Hearings Against Teachers

CINCINNATI (AP) — Judge William Morrissey, citing indications of progress in the Northwest Teachers Association's salary dispute, has continued a hearing for the group until May 13.

"By the 13th it is possible things may have transpired that will no longer make this case necessary," Morrissey of the Hamilton County Common Pleas Court said Thursday.

The NTA, which represents about 450 of 480 teachers in the suburban Northwest Local School District, has been permanently enjoined from boycotting classes. At the hearing, the NTA is to show cause why an order should not be made permanent.
